

To the Adlai Stevenson Center on Democracy Community:

On March 11, 2020, the World Health Organization (WHO) declared the ongoing outbreak of the novel coronavirus (COVID-19) a global pandemic. This is an unprecedented situation for all of us.

We have made the difficult decision to cancel our March 29 meeting with Sheriff Dart and the April 5 meeting with Anita Banerji. The May 31 meeting with Geoffrey Stone is still scheduled but we are not taking early registrations. We are taking this action in an abundance of caution and based on the pathology of COVID-19 and according to public health official recommendations. Those who have registered for upcoming events will receive a notification of the cancellation via email and a refund of all registration fees.

We will continue to produce digital content as possible and are exploring opportunities to add live streams and other digital content over the next few weeks. Please look for updates on our home page, www.stevensoncenterondemocracy.org, and Facebook page.

All of us at the Stevenson Center understand that this issue is cause for concern and we offer our deepest sympathies to those who have been affected.

Thank you for your support of the Adlai Stevenson Center on Democracy. As we adjust our operations and activities during this challenging time, we will do our best to provide you insight into what's happening in the world and why it matters.

Best wishes,

Nancy Stevenson
